

Nowadays more people are living by themselves IELTS Essay

 simplyielts.com

Nowadays more people are living by themselves IELTS band 7 essay

In this lesson, you will find IELTS writing task 2 essay and answer “Nowadays more people are living by themselves IELTS Essay“

You should spend about 40 minutes on this task.

Nowadays more people are living by themselves. What are the reasons for this? Will this have a negative or a positive impact on the society?

You should write at least 250 words.

Nowadays more people are living by themselves 7 band IELTS Essay sample answer

Pace of change has quickened in the recent past and as a result of this our social behaviours have also undergone sea change and in the modern world living alone is a trend and not an aberration any more.

There are many reasons as to why people live alone , the first reason is the freedom individual desires , because in the modern world individualism is respected and is shown to be the ideal by our media who name it as empowerment and life without any boundaries.

Second reason is the development of communications technology which blurs the boundaries between real and virtual , for example we are connected with all our friends with social media such as face book, this kind of connections makes us believe that we know all about our friends and family , therefore, disconnection with real world is not actually felt.

In my view, people living individually will have a bad impact on the society, as there are many disadvantages of living alone, first of all people would not have any social support network because they live alone and in case of any help needed by them, it will not be forthcoming, furthermore, it also promotes sadness because as the age advances people begin to feel void and emptiness which can only be filled by other humans, but since they live alone, it increases, and gives rise to loneliness and sadness leading to diseases such as depression etc.

To conclude, I would like to state that we should try be as social as we can because joys of life are to experienced together and if we continue to live alone , a day might come that will damage the entire social structure of our society beyond repair.